

Generations at Henkel: Different Stories, Shared Success

Every career journey is different. In this live panel, colleagues from different generations will share the defining milestones, decisions, and turning points that have shaped their professional paths. What motivated them to take the next step, change direction, move abroad, or explore new opportunities? Which choices were carefully planned – and which came unexpectedly? Through personal stories and honest reflections, our panelists will offer insights into what they have learned along the way and the advice they would give to others at the beginning of their careers. Join us for diverse perspectives, practical takeaways, and an open conversation about the many paths to shared success at Henkel.

Why should you join the live stream:

- Hear honest career stories and discover the key decisions and turning points that shaped different professional journeys.
- Gain practical advice from colleagues across generations on navigating change, taking opportunities, and building your own career path.
- Ask your questions live and take away fresh perspectives and actionable insights for your future at Henkel.
